School Notes

By the School Correspondent

Citizens and ex-students are especially requested by the staff to assist them in writing and recording at once all letters to the school. At present, through lack of records for the previous years, it has been found impossible to make a proper estimate and catalogue of the present library, and, because of this, government grants and contributions in dollars is being withheld. It is earnestly hoped that the public will give the immediate attention and earnest co-operation, so that the pupils may not be hampered longer by being deprived of this invaluable part of their education, and the citizens also, it is the aim and desire of those in charge that these books should be placed at the service of the community.

During the past week an agreement has been made between the parents and the school to provide the pupils with the opportunity of hearing two world renowned artists, Boris Hamsburg, cellist, and Redfern Hollingshead, New York concert tenor. Subscription lists will be posted in the Union Bank and the Bank of Commerce, at an early date, and the amount will be collected and assigned in individual subscriptions. This is not only a musical treat rarely offered outside of the larger centres, but is also an opportunity of exceptional educational advantage to old and young, the patronage of the citizens and the community is earnestly solicited to second the efforts of the school. Remember the place and the date—Claresholm School Hall, Feb. 12.

Important circles last week arrangements were completed for inter-school games with Macleod on Thanksgiving Day, in Basket ball and football. Alfred Ellund has been selected to captain the football team and Miss Amy Eyerum, the basket ball. Mr. Macleod will be in charge of the games for the occasion, and should the weather man lead thereto an auspicious smile, an exciting contest is expected. The students and the staff wish to thank most heartily the gentlemen who have so kindly offered their cars for the trip. As far as the parents are concerned, the hope is that the parents may feel every confidence in allowing their girls and boys to take part in this, which should prove not only a delightful outing, but an instructive test of competition as d fair play, and may they always continue playing the game, a square game—First but Fair!

On Wednesday last the nominations for the election of the library society were received. From 9 till 11 a.m. Friday morning the elections were held with the following office in charge: Alex Simpson, Returning officer; Mertie Morrow and Hazel Hutton, Scrutinizers; Maude Miles, Poll Clerk.

The results were as follows: Hon. Prof. Mrs. McKinney, secy.; Vice Pres. Mrs. Hutton, secy. & Sec. Alred Ellund; Treas., Harold Solz.

Executive: XII, Maude Miles, secy.; XI, Myrtle Bowles, secy.; X, Jessie Morrow; IX, Arthur Haig, secy.; VII, Veda Workman.

At 3 o'clock in the evening the society was opened for the election results were read, and all candidates, defeated and successful, addressed the electors in due form.

Negotiations have finally been completed and Ruby and Hoosier schools have signed their consolidation agreements with Claresholm.

The attendance at school is now 246, an increase of twenty in the last two weeks. Parents in the new districts are specially requested to send pupils immediately at time and work lost at the beginning of a term cannot be regained without very special efforts.

Trout Creek

Mrs. G. M. Slipp, who has been spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Slipp left Thursday evening for her home in St. John, N. B. On the eve of her departure she was presented with an address, accompanied a sterling silver pickle fork from the Willow Creek farm women club. The presentation was made by Mr. P. J. Peterson, on behalf of the club.

Bible Society Sunday

The churches throughout Alberta are asked to observe next Sunday an Bible Society Sunday. No institution in the world has done more for the spread of Christianity than the Bible Society, and it deserves all the support we can give it. The great ideals of the society are:

1—To translate the Scriptures into every man's speech, however complex or uncouth his speech may be.

2—To multiply copies, however strange the character or script may be.

3—To bring the books within every man's reach, however difficult of access he may be.

4—To sell to every man at a price he can afford however poor he may be.

The British and Foreign Bible Society has striven faithfully to attain these ideals. It has now 500 million copies in print in about 60 different forms of type, it translated over 11,000,000 books since 1915-16, and one of the most far-reaching organizations in the world; it sells its editions at prices adjusted by the standard of wages of the poorest laborers in each country.

The Gospel yet remains to be translated into many tongues. The rapid spread of educational knowledge in foreign countries, is raising millions of new readers every year. The enterprises and triumphs of Christian Missions are creating new and imperious claims upon the Bible Society. The world is far more open to God's Book than ever before.

Anti-Militarists

In a speech at Montreal the other evening, Sir Wilfrid Laurier asserted that he was anti-militarist, adding: "After this war there are men who will want to drag us into militarism, and I will fight that in the future as in the past." We believe the great bulk of the people of the Great Lakes, if it is strong enough, will do the same. Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that they are anti-militarist in their sentiments. To-day the people of the Empire and the Dominion of Canada are faced with the grim necessity of taking up arms to defend themselves from German militarism. This is a task which the Dominion will join hands with Sir Wilfrid and declare that they are anti-militarist in their sentiments. To-day the people of the Empire and the Dominion of Canada are faced with the grim necessity of taking up arms to defend themselves from German militarism.

The results will come just as surely as the sun rises tomorrow if it is so desired, but it is the avowed purpose of Britain and her Allies, to continue the fight with unceasing vigor until the last vestige of militarism has been wiped out of Europe.

T. C. Milnes purchased two new cars this week.

Lieut. Ryan, of Macleod, who left with the 13th, is reported wounded.

Mr. S. C. Williams and family have moved into town and are in the Hermon cottage at the west end.

Don't forget the chicken pie supper at the Methodist church on Thanksgiving day, Oct. 9th.

Mrs. James McKinney was elected President of the W. C. T. U. of Alberta, at the convention at Red Deer.

Mr. Warren and family, of Calgary, are moving into the old telephone exchange building. Mr. Warren is working at the Alberta Grain elevator.

Shaw Bros., of Midnapore, have taken the house vacated by Mr. Vaden, to use during the threshing season.

Walter Williams was in town over Saturday. He is attending school at Nanton and taking medical treatment there.

Eric Moffatt has removed his office from the post office building to the office next to the Central Meat market.

Pirates Maddon, Burt, Fries and Riley left on Tuesday to join their battalions. They expected to leave for France on Wednesday.

A number of threshing machines from outside points have been moved into the Claresholm district. Among them are Rod McKeen, of Midnapore, Shaw Bros., of Midnapore, and Seamus of Lacombe.

Messrs White and Hayes recently purchased one of the old traction engines which had been standing by the Star Line road for several years. They have fitted it up and got it going in fine shape.

The man who summerfalls half of his land each year and does it early in the season is the man who is making the money at farming, and is also the man who can take his time at his work. Good farming always pays.

G. M. Godley is building a new garage. The shop which has been turned into a fine residence has been moved back on the lot and when painted will present a very pretty appearance.

Rev. J. Phenox has arranged for a series of literary evenings during the winter. The programs are already prepared, and these meetings will no doubt prove very interesting and popular.

Chas Noble, of the Noblenford farm, expects to beat the world's record for 100 acres of wheat. The record is 62 bush per acre. The whole of his 1000 acres of summerfallow is not yet sown, but indications are that it will average over the world's present record.

The coal shortage is beginning to look serious. A large number of farmers were in on Monday looking for coal, and found none in the town except briquettes which Mr. Hallett happened to have in stock. The scarcity of miners is said to be the cause of the shortage at the mines.

R. E. Moffatt, W.R. Shanks and T. Kingsley left town on Sunday afternoon for the hills to be ready for the opening of the chicken shooting season. Over to the indie mines, the weather, they got cold feet, and returned, looking very sad but in time for church.

Edwin Gilditch met with an accident on Saturday, shortly after leaving town in his new car. In turning a corner too quickly the car skidded and turned turtle. All five of the occupants were thrown out, only one was hurt, and that not very seriously. The car was badly damaged.

Mr. W. McAllister and John Ed had a quiet trip to Frank last Friday. The film for the "War Veteran" when you have a job to offer" passed the train at Fernie, and rather than disappoint the crowd erected on Friday night, two cars were requisitioned, one at Fernie and one at Claresholm, to cover the 200 miles that separated the film from the audience. They met in the afternoon at Claresholm, and saw the Frank slide. The return trip was done in record time, and when the film was shown to our trouble at Macleod, but by exceeding the speed limit they arrived in town shortly before 7 p.m., in good time for the evening performance.

# LADY :: URSULA'S HUSBAND

BY FLORENCE WARDEN
*Word, Law & Co., Limited

In the meantime Lady Ursula and Paul had come downstairs ready for their meal. Paul had then seen Lord Eastling, who was evidently changed when he saw that he was with his wife.

"I am sure Ursula, you were going out with me," said coldly.

But her sweet, pleading face made Paul smile.

"I am going out with both of you," she said.

Very reluctantly the two men accompanied her, while she exerted herself, by addressing first the one, then the other, in such a manner between them as to make conversation in which both could participate.

She sat down here on the opportunity of bringing the two men together, and then set about the difficulties and on effecting a real reconciliation between them, for which she had been waiting.

Her brother, who had been prepared the way,

The result was not very successful.

They visited the village where Lady Ursula had made her home, and beloved, and where her two companions were amazed at the welcome given to the young couple by the Black Country.

On the way they passed a man who was carrying a name of respectability—a man who turned on his heel and fled as they approached.

Lord Eastling, looking at the disappearing figure, said to himself that morning had prepared the way.

On their return homewards they saw a man.

As the man had a good look at the man, and had no difficulty in recognizing him, he turned and faced before it was that of the taller of the two men who had made him feel so uncomfortable in the Strand restaurant, that they were friends, or perhaps accomplices, of Paul.

The whole ugly story of the pearl necklace, and his doubtful identity had been told him, as Lord Eastling looked from Paul, walking on the other side of the road, to the other man, the overcoat, and bowler hat.

What was Paul doing there?

For the doubts of his brother-in-law, which had been perfectly resolved, trusty advocacy, Lord Eastling stopped short and watched the man.

"Who's that fellow?" asked sharply, addressing Paul.

"I don't know, but I know him," replied his brother-in-law lazily.

"Some hoister in want of a pal to stand him up?"

"He looked," observed Lady Ursula, anxious to appear the antagonist, and to give Paul a chance to be rising again in her company.

"As I hoped to find a friend among us, I will go and see him."

"That's what I thought," said Lord Eastling.

Lady Ursula looked at her brother with sudden fear.

"He has a most disagreeable countenance," she said. "He has a horrid look."

"What?" said Lord Eastling, white Paul nothing.

Lord Eastling remained silent for the rest of the day, except to go with his brother-in-law to the post office, and to read a few more of some letters.

On the following morning, while Lady Ursula was having her hair dressed, there was a violent knock at the door, and she sent him to keep watch, once more upon the movements of the man, whom she had determined to prevent a meeting between him and this man whom he believed to be the person whom she had visited Paul at the restaurant.

Paul, however, was in the house for the rest of the day, except to go with his brother-in-law to the post office, and to read a few more of some letters.

"Oh, Lady Ursula," gasped the excited lady, as she rushed at her friend, "you have been here! You have been here—my pearls! my pearls!"

A detailed account of the return of the three rows of pearls that morning, seen through the eyes of the man who had come in with a word of explanation. Lady Ursula looked at the box, at the pearls, with a look of admiration outside. This was in an old-fashioned female hand. The postman had been with her.

"How are the incubators getting along?" asked a friend of his neighbor.

"Why, all right, I suppose; but although we have had them for two weeks, we have not had an egg yet."

The Granum Women's Institute

A birth is an auspicious occasion at any time, but the birth of a society like the Women's Institute is a birth to be just what we need here. We have many societies, but none so far reaching as this one, as it is strictly non-sectarian and non-partisan, and its object is one which must enlist the sympathies of every thinking person. Every member can look forward not only to being assisted, but she may also have the privilege of assisting others.

Despite the cold windy day on Wednesday, September 27th, thirty-one ladies from the surrounding country and town attended the meeting held at the home of Mrs. D. McNaughton, and a very profitable and enjoyable afternoon was spent. Many instructive papers were read and useful information was gained. The arrangements for a from Canada to the United States circulating library was completed, than had come from the United States Co-operative buying and selling or exchange among the members was also arranged for.

A dainty luncheon was served, and everyone voted Mrs. Laughon an ideal hostess.

Mrs. STEWART, Secy-Treas.

There were six arrests for drunkenness in Calgary during the month of August. This is an excellent record, considering that in August, 1915 there were 60 arrests made. So far, the effect of the liquor laws has been that there would be more drunkenness under prohibition than under license, has not been realized. As the old stocks of booze, that many stored up, are exhausted, arrests of drunkenness will doubtless disappear altogether.

Pat Walsh made a trip, in company with W. R. Lindner, of Claresholm, and City Engineer Craig, of Calgary, to Field in order to inspect the Sunday Copper mine which is owned by Mr. Lindsay. They brought back some excellent samples of ore. The ore will be analysed, and the results will be held in Calgary on Friday at which Mr. Craig's report will be read and the results of the analysis given. If the report is as favorable as is expected it is not anticipated that there will be much trouble in securing the necessary capital for development, especially in view of the fact that some of Calgary's most prominent financial men have already banded themselves together as a nucleus for a syndicate to exploit this property.

H. F. Gadby, brilliant Canadian journalist, continues in the October number of Maclean's Magazine his notable series of Canadian political studies.
